How to use this template

Checklist

- 3 sheets of A4 paper
- Glue
- Ruler
- Scoring tool
- Scalpel or box cutter
- Sticky tape for reinforcing

Paper

Ordinary printing paper is fine, but you will get a more durable pocket if you use slightly thicker paper. I like using sugar paper which looks both elegant and rustic.

Glue and sticky tape

To glue the flaps together you can use glue or double-sided tape. I find glue stick works best as it is not as messy as liquid glue and it sets quickly.

I apply a piece of sticky tape to the back of the heart and the slot where the heart is inserted in order to give it more stability.

Where to cut and score

Cur around all the outer lines of the template, and score all the remaining lines using either a scoring tool, or if you haven't got one a skewer or knitting needle will work. Also use a ruler when scoring to get precise folds, which will lead to a neater end product.

Heart fastening

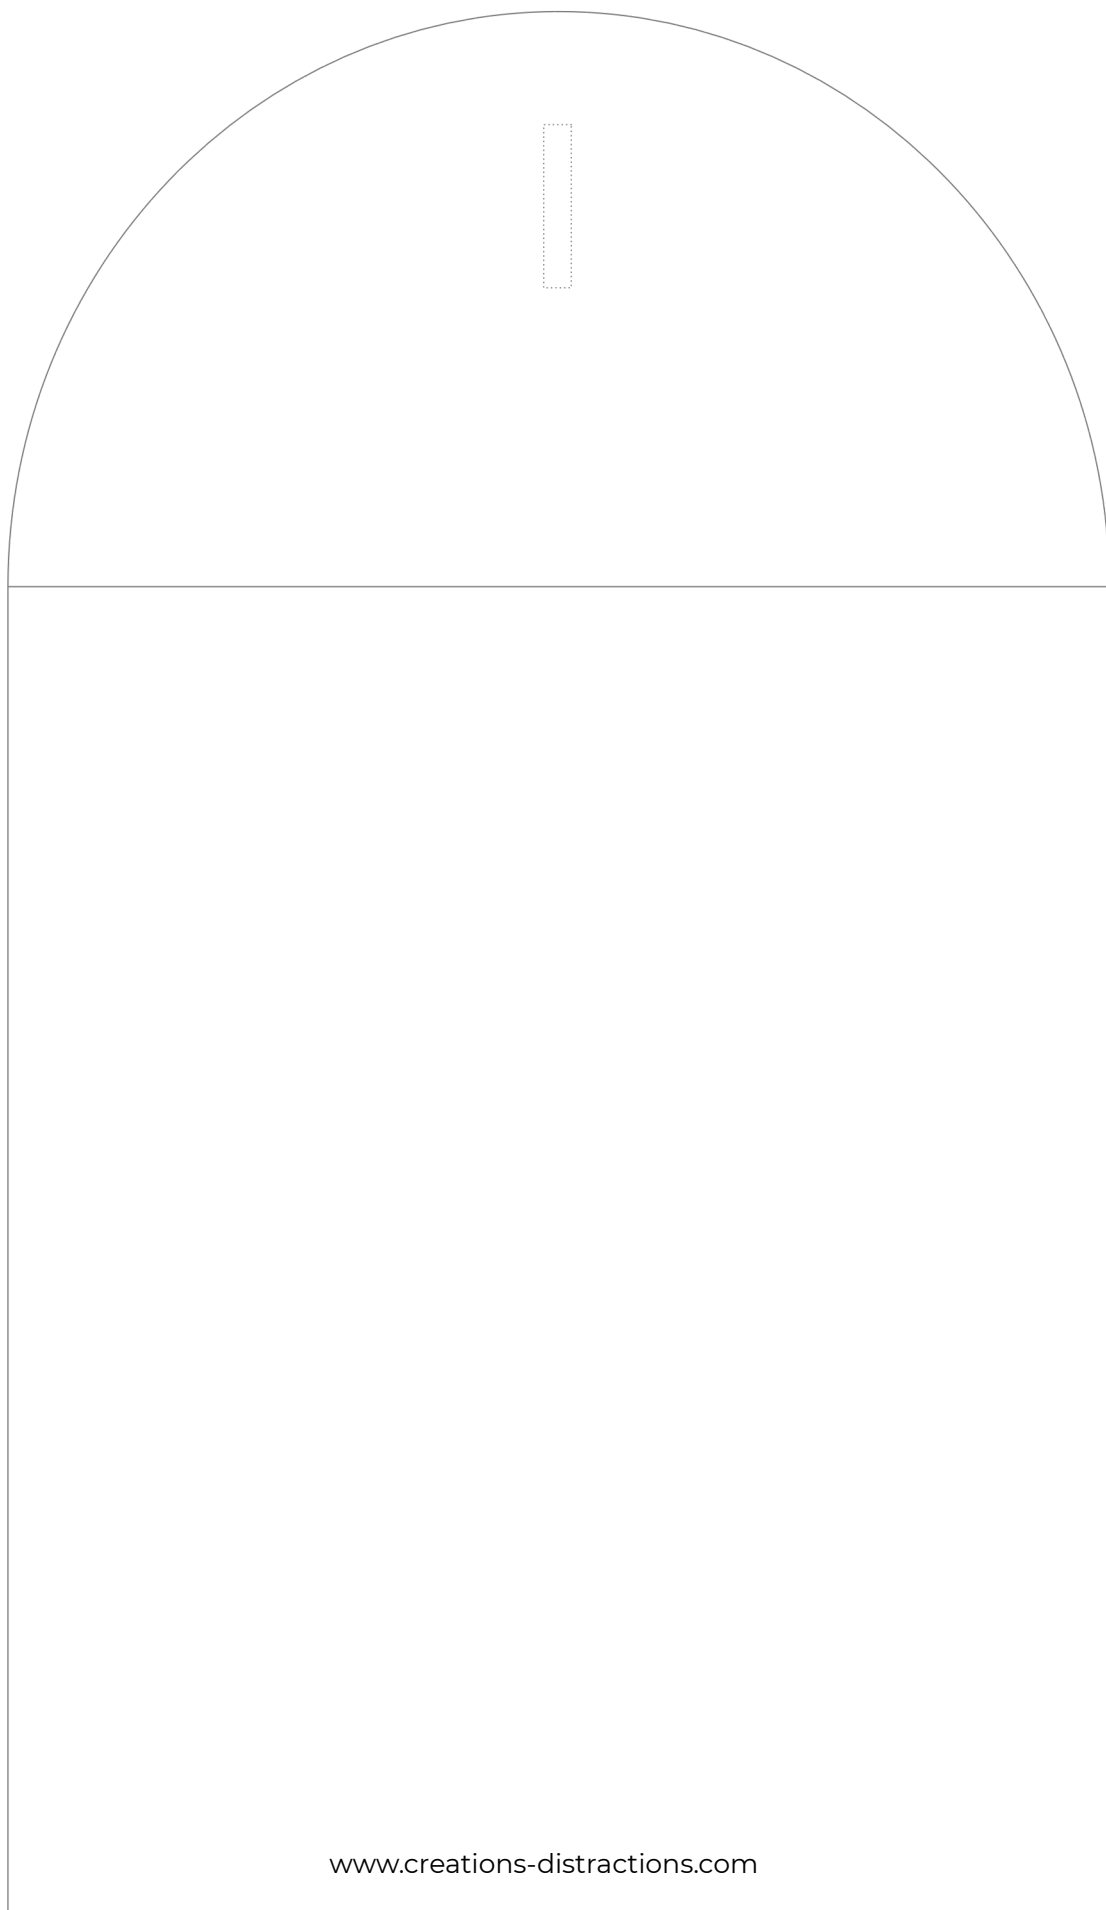

Be careful not to cut all the way around the heart as it would fall out. You have to leave a strip of paper intact which will hold the heart in place. Then score along the lines from the top to the bottom of the heart and fold the 'wings' of the heart so that they can be inserted through the slit on the closing flap of the envelope.

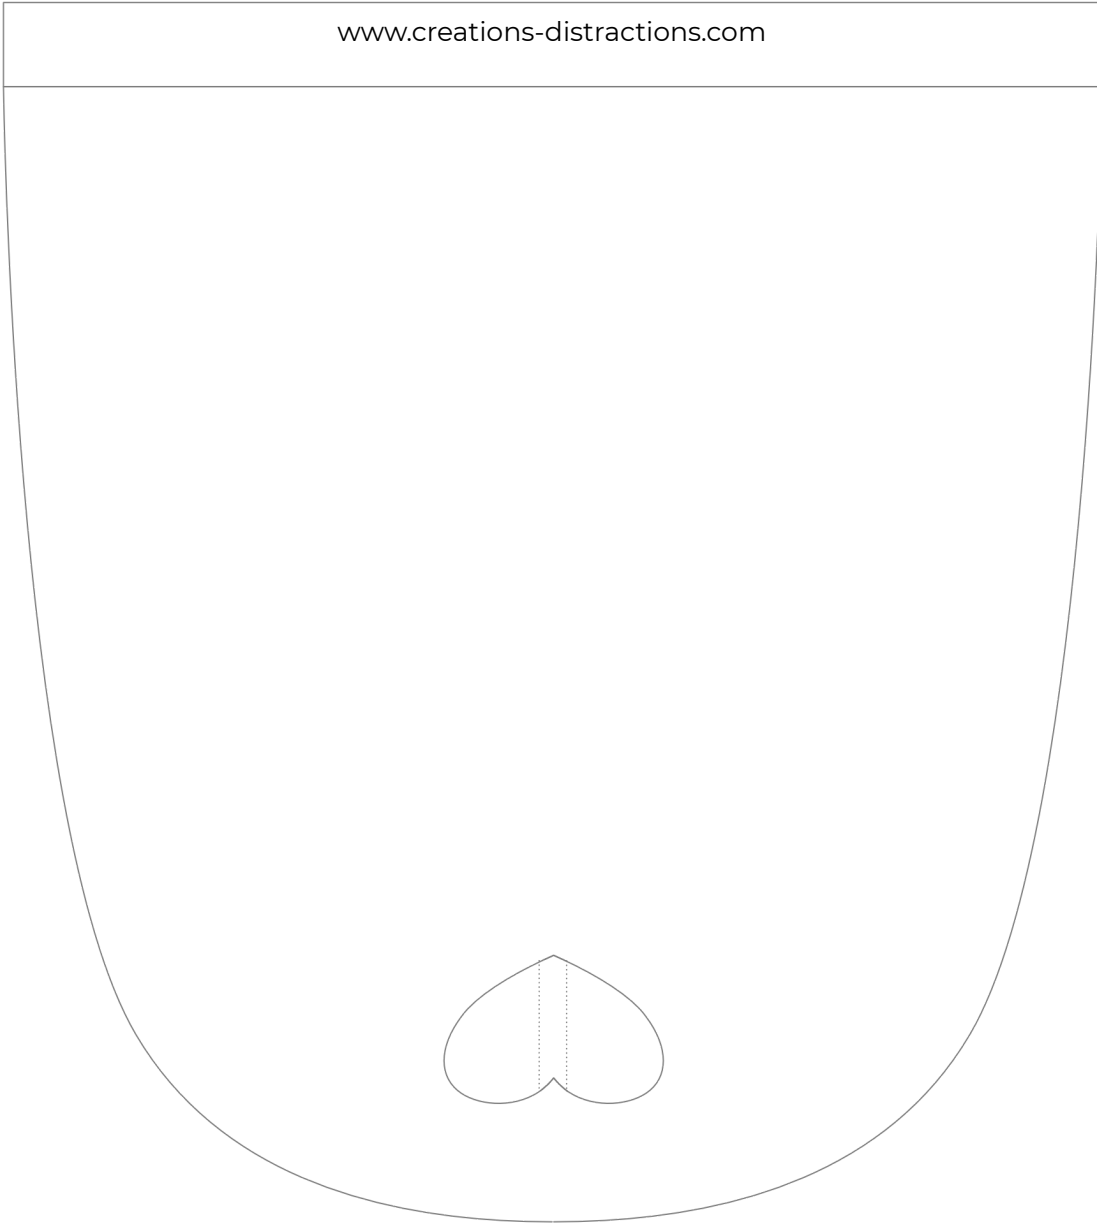

Sizing

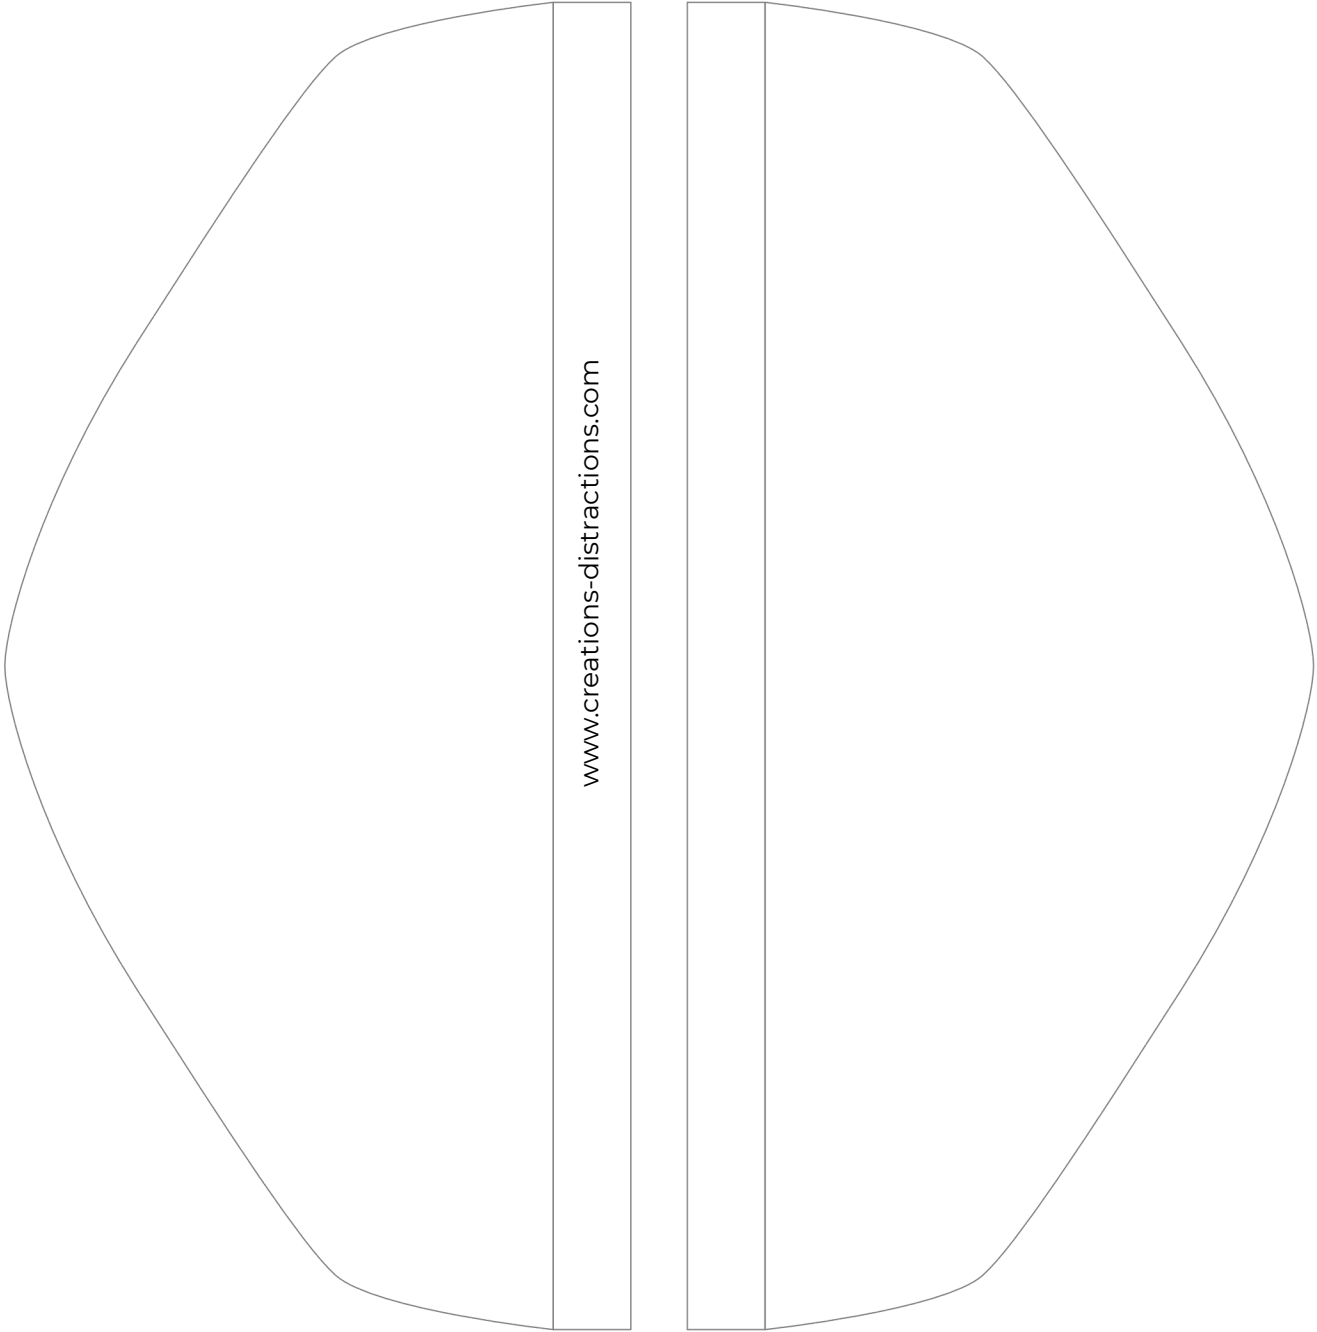

You can create a smaller envelope by scaling down the size on your print settings.
